BPT would like to take this opportunity to thank all our funders and partners for the opportunity to have such an impact on London’s young people.

During the recent summer holidays BPT's Café partner Brixton Peoples Kitchen provided healthy lunches to young users of The Hub.

"Healthy Lunches" is a Brixton People's Kitchen project funded through the Kitchen Social fund, part of the Mayor of London's project to combat hunger in the holidays. It meant that for the first 20 days of the summer holidays The People's Kitchen were able to provide a healthy hot lunch to up to 30 young people of school age (5-19) attending a regular sporting activity at the Black Prince Trust.

We were inundated with attendees and most days had 33-34 young people coming into the cafe for a sit-down lunch. We were able to introduce new foods to the teenagers (vegetables!) and on the final day even got there of them into the kitchen to cook the groups lunch. We hope to be able to repeat the project in the next holiday subject to securing funding.

London Assembly Member Florence Eshalomi visits The Hub

On Thursday 8th August the Black Prince Trust welcomed GLA Assembly Member for Southwark and Lambeth, Florence Eshalomi to The Hub to witness first-hand the great work our partners deliver in addressing key social issues through the power of sport and personal wellbeing.

During the day Florence worked with our community café partners Brixton Peoples Kitchen preparing food for their free holiday hunger programme and healthy lunches for the School Of Hard Knocks participants. Taking time out from her kitchen duties, Florence also visited the Right Development Foundation and Regal Basketball (BPT Basketball) who had partnered on London's first 5v5 Junior Summer League which is funded by the Mayor's Office.

Local Assembly Member Florence Eshalomi said, "Part of my role is to champion the great community organisations working at the grassroots level with our young people with support and funding from the Mayor's Office. It is always great to visit the Black Prince Trust community hub and see first-hand the range of different activities keeping young people active and other local residents engaged. What is great about BTP is that there is something for people of all ages - it a truly inclusive community hub.

It was great to get stuck in with the Brixton People's Kitchen helping the staff team prepare the meals ready for the group of men taking part in the School of Hard Knocks and the young people registered for the summer camp. Eating is something that brings everybody together and a way to remove barriers and build stronger relationships. The People's Kitchen capture this with the volunteers and many people coming to explore and use the café. "

Community Open Day

On Saturday 17th August BPT held its annual Community Funday in partnership with Watmos Community Homes and the Ethelred Tenant Management Organisation (ETMO) who manage the Ethelred estate which BPT is a huge part of. During the day the community had the chance to take experience both community boxing and yoga sessions which are part of the regular community offer from The Hub. Also, on offer was the chance to -

- Onsite Health Checks provided by the staff from local community pharmacist the Hurley Pharmacy
- Gain skills in growing cooking herbs with Progress London
- CV support from Streamz employability support team
- Information on energy saving within the home and living greener
- Bike safety checks
- Family fun activities including Face painting, arts and crafts activities and fun games

The Migration Museum presents “The Borderless Cup Lambeth”

This summer we joined forces with the Black Prince Trust, Vauxhall One and Kick It Out to present the first Borderless Cup Lambeth, an inclusive football and basketball tournament for Lambeth residents and community organisations. The Borderless Cup Tournaments are about recognising connections between migration, diversity, and sport, and moving beyond the 'borders' that divide us in our everyday life to celebrate all our stories.

And that’s exactly what participants and bystanders at the first Borderless Cup Lambeth did! Whilst over 80 local players took part in the football and basketball tournaments, volunteers from the Migration Museum collected stories from the local community, which will shortly be appearing in a display at the Black Prince Trust Community Hub.

Following the action-packed afternoon, our guests headed over to the Migration Museum, located just around the corner from the BPT on Lambeth High Street. At the Migration Museum visitors enjoyed music and a well-earned drink, as well as the chance to have an exclusive private viewing of our current immersive exhibition “Room to Breathe”. The winners of the football tournament were awarded their medals and goody bags from former professional football player, anti-racism campaigner, and friend of the museum, Paul Canoville.

Meanwhile our basketball champions were awarded their medals by chair of Vauxhall One, Aseem Sheikh, who congratulated the players on their impressive athletic abilities.

We hope that this is the first of many Borderless Cup Tournaments. We would like to give a big thank you to all the teams who participated, to the Black Prince Trust for hosting the tournaments, to Vauxhall One for making the event possible, and to everyone who shared their story with us on the day.
