

Black Prince Trust – Community Update November 2018

Black Prince Trust Partners in Action

As you will all be aware BPT prides itself on working with leading industry partners to work together to address key social issues using the power of sport and physical activity. Below are some key projects our partners Fight 4 Change, Streetgames and Centrepoint Engagement have been working on.

Black Prince Trust Welcomes Michael B Jordan

On Thursday 30th November BPT arranged for Creed II star Michael B Jordan to surprise students from local secondary school Platanos College attending

BPT partner, Fight 4 Change's boxing session. The visit took place following on from the students attending the European Premiere at the Imax in Waterloo, where the students walked the red carpet and rubbed shoulders with the stars.

Michael B Jordan took the time to talk to the students about his youth and how he used to attend places like The Hub growing up. The Creed II star followed on with encouraging words for the students to work hard in the gym and at school, took the time to give some boxing tips, held pads and finished off by taking the time to have a picture with each student and Fight 4 Change coaches.

Streetgames - CHANGING LIVES. CHANGING COMMUNITIES. CHANGING SPORT.

For the next 2 and a half years, StreetGames will be supporting a cluster of Lambeth organisations to work together in partnership to:

- Bring together a range of locally trusted organisations to collaborate on programmes with shared aims and goals.
- Work with regional and strategic partners with shared aims so that we can provide locally trusted organisations with the right support, expertise, guidance and resources.
- Our focus is determined by the needs of the group.

The main KPIs will be around:

- INCREASE ACTIVITY LEVELS
- Test strategies to engage inactive and fairly active people aged 8-35
- Increase positive attitudes towards sport and being active
- Increase the diversity of volunteer workforce
- Improve the mental wellbeing and individual development of attendees
- Increase the sustainability of LTO's

If any organisations would like to be part of the Lambeth Sport 4 Good cluster, then ask them to get in touch by e-mailing keith.sykes@streetgames.org

Centrepoint Engagements Sports department use the power of sport to engage young people (16-24) into positive activities to address key social issues. Here at BPT Centrepoint Engagement refer young people onto Fight 4 Change's weekly open boxing sessions.

On Tuesday evenings at The Hub they deliver Street Football from 3pm-5pm and on Fridays between 5pm-6pm they host a women's only Street Football session. Both the sessions are designed to provide a comfortable relaxed environment for all players.

Players from the female only session have now progressed into Powerleague's new women's league that is running weekly from The Hub.

Black Prince Trust partnership qualifies 18 new FA coaches

The Black Prince Trust and CSM Foundation are delighted to announce the qualification of 18 new FA Level 1 coaches.

16 males and 2 females formed part of the coach education plan for CSM Foundation's "Football Fits" project which looks at increasing participation for 14-19-year olds in partnership with 10 grassroots football clubs in London. Over the course of three weekends the coaches took part in practical and classroom-based learning which was followed by a formal assessment to qualify them as official FA coaches. The newly qualified coaches will now apply their learning to hundreds of players aged 14-19 across London. Funding for this programme was provided through London Sport and Sport England's Satellite Clubs programme.

Q8 and Black Prince Trust - COMMENT ON HOW THIS COULD BENEFIT BPT

The Black Prince Trust is working in partnership with Q8 Middle Management programme over the next 6 months to develop a corporate and social responsibility strategy for The Hub. On Thursday 22nd November BPT staff had the chance to present the history and current work being delivered from The Hub and agree the programme outcomes moving forward.

The delegate group consists of management staff from across the European and international Q8 business with expertise in marketing, customer service, IT and business development. The group will be working closely with BPT staff to develop: -

- A focused corporate and social responsibility strategy for the Black Prince Trust to engage companies and institutions to raise the profile of the work BPT does to combat key local and Lambeth wide social issues
- Develop a range of corporate packages in team-building through sport to maximise company productivity and inter team working

The delegate group will be visiting The Hub in January 2019 to see first hand the facilities, work BPT does with the community and engage with partners.

Regal Basketball – The Home of Community Basketball in London

Joel leading the Hawks

Great news coming over from Nebraska as Regal Basketball regular Joel Ufele has hit the court running at Northeast Community College. Joel is a product of basketball partner the Kennington Generals Community basketball club who train at The Regal court here at The Hub. At the beginning of the 2018 season Joel signed a full athletic scholarship with the NECC Hawks men's basketball.

Before signing his scholarship, Joel could always be found at The Regal practicing and giving advice to the younger players. In his last game Joel recorded a Double Double with 10 points, 10 rebounds.

Regal Lion Coach given GB Basketball call up

London Lions star and Regal Lions coach Justin Robinson was called up to the GB Basketball squad for their FIBA EuroBasket 2021 Pre-Qualifiers in Manchester this week. GB Basketball are pooled with Austria and Cyprus with the top team out of the pool qualify for EuroBasket 2021. In their last outing Justin and his GB team mates lost to Austria 82-96. They will now have to wait until February 21st to right the loss when they take on Cyprus.

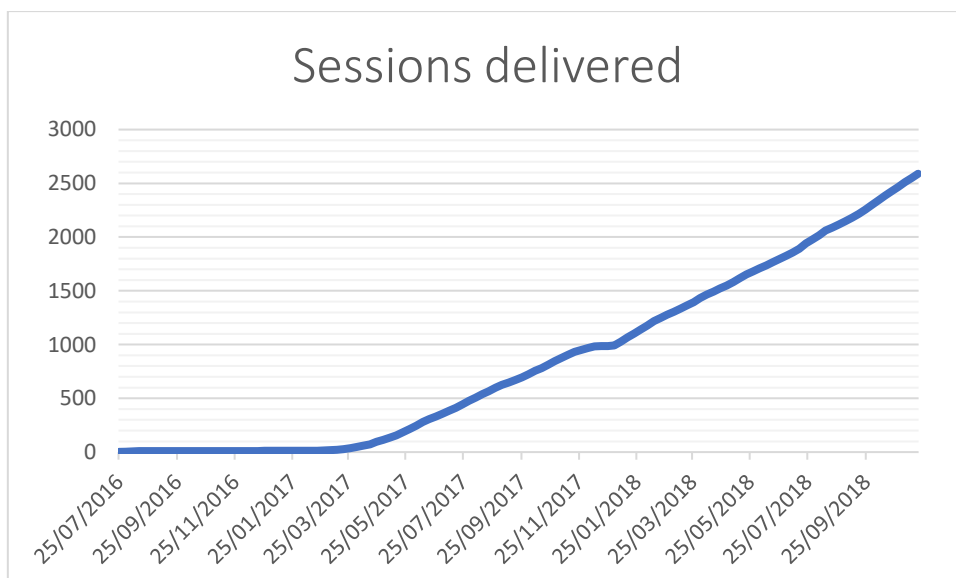

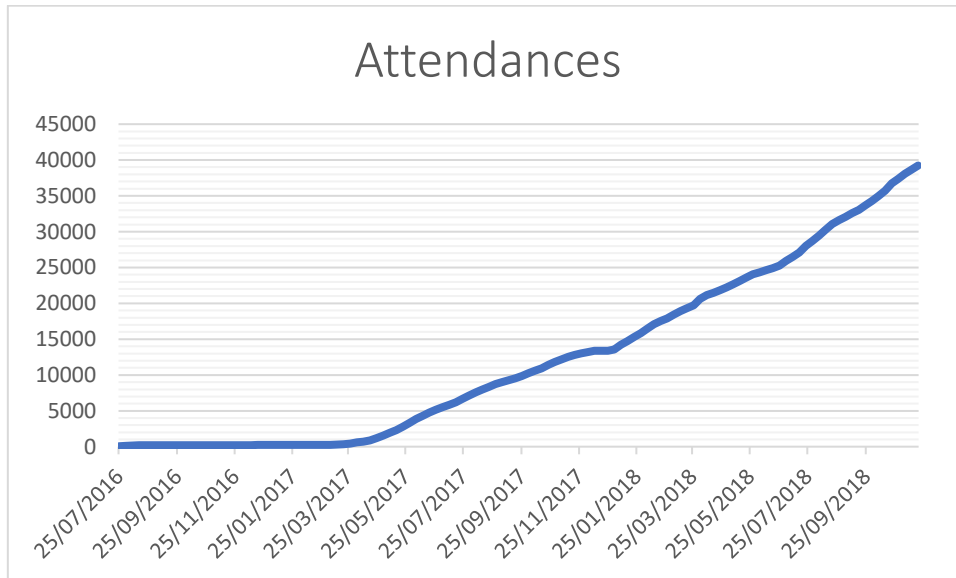

When Justin is not in action for the Lions or GB he can be found every Tuesday evening in the Jordan Court from 430pm-630pm passing on his knowledge and experience to the GB stars of the future.
